Ed,

Sorry I could do you no good on William Snell. I did a search on the census index of America for 1850 and found approx 65 William Snells. None in LA. None in MS. Two in GA. The rest scattered about America.

Just for the heck of it I did a marriage search of AL, GA and SC for Dorminy and Dorminey and found only what you probably already have (nothing very early.)

DORMINY MARRIAGES

Clayton Co, GA
A S Dorminy md Miss M M Hanes 4-4-1877

Hi,

John Domine was granted a lot in Purysburg in about the year 1732 as I remember seeing on some old records in SC when I visited a year or so ago.

Does anyone in the group have ANY information on this gentleman? I am researching the Dorminy family of Irwin County that I have back to John Dorminy who was born in ???? in the year 1768 and came to Georgia in the early 1790's to Washington County and then he showed up in Montgomery, Emanuel, Laurens and later about 1830 was in Irwin County. He married Rachel Bradford (also looking for her father).

I have chased possible ancestors and come to the conclusion that only this man in Purysburg could possibly be an ancestor. Can you help??

Thanks

Hi,
I see where you are researching Holman. I have a John Holman who married a Sarah (Sally) Dorminy. She was born in 1784 probably in Richland Co.SC.
Her father was Andrew Dorminy 1754-1817 who married Margaret.

If you could help me I would be most appreciative.

Thanks,

I need your help.....

I have been researching the Domini(Dominey)/Dorminy/Dorminey lines of families for several years and have run into a complete roadblock. Have no clue where to turn now. Let me explain where I am.

Our ancestor John Dorminy b. 1768 was married to Rachel Bradford b. 1774. We cannot find where he originated but family tradition states it was South Carolina. So, I trapse over to SC on a golf outing a few years back and visit the archives in Columbia and find a line of Dorminy's that match up name-wise with ours and get the information and try to document it as well as possible. Andrew Dorminy who married Margaret. Well it seems as if the dates don't match up because Andrew was 14 when John was born. I know this is possible but highly unlikely.

Our John migrated to Washington County,GA by the early 1790's as he signed a protest against the Yazoo Land Fraud along with Frederick Dorminy who we would like to find also.

Below is the file listing the family of Andrew Dorminy Sr. (Revolutionary Soldier) and wife Margaret. I sure would like to know the descendants as the only ones we know are for the one's that married Andrew Moak.

Hi to all,

Wondering if anyone can help me find some families that I am researching and have run into some dead ends.

We are trying to tie our Dorminy/Dorminey family back to South Carolina where family tradition tells us they left in the early 1790's to come to Georgia and landed around the Washington County area and then migrated to Montgomery County and then to Irwin County where they raised a large family that has prospered and spread.

We have proof back to our ancestor, John Dorminy who married Rachel Bradford. John was born in 1768 and died in Oct. 1847 in Irwin County, GA. Rachel was born in 1774 and died in 1852 in Irwin County, GA.

We are still hunting Rachel's birthplace and parents. Don't really have any good leads. We feel she might be a sister to Thomas Bradford , Revolutionary War Soldier, born in Edgecombe County, SC in 1766 and died in Irwin County, GA in 1840. Has anyone done any work on the Bradford lines? I have a lot of them who were around Irwin County and Berrien County, GA that I would be happy to share info.

Where did John Dorminy come from before moving to Georgia? There was an Andrew Dorminy (Domini) in Richland County, SC but the dates do not match up with him or his wife Margaret. I traced their ancestry back to the parrish records in Germany where they were born and married. Also have the Council Journal records from the Archives in South Carolina about land they received after coming to America. Also the Dominicks in Newberry County do not seem to match up. HOWEVER, I read that a John Dorminy (Domine, Dormany, Dormina I'm not sure) was listed as being a lot holder in the Purysburg settlement on the Savannah River. Being in Georgia, our library's don't have ANY information on South Carolina so I have not been able to find out about this possibility. Any help here?? I believe that the Purrysburg area was settled by the Swiss people and the town was deserted in later years. I don't know any history on Purysberg.

In South Carolina, the Andrew Dorminy (Domini) I mentioned before had daughters who married into some lines that we are going to research to find out if there was anyone else in the family that we missed. We know the following children:

Sarah (Sally) Dorminy b. 1784 married John Holeman (Holoman?)

Mary (Polly) Dorminy b. before 1796 died after 1850 married John Sanders

Elizabeth married John Smith 1st married Daniel Minnix 2nd

Margaret b. before 1840 married John Royser (Roiser?)

Catherine and Susannah both married the same man, Andrew Moak and moved west.

we have this documented very well.

Andrew Dorminy Jr. - we don't think he ever married.

If there are other Dorminy's in South Carolina that I have missed, it would be good to hear from you about their whereabouts. I am baffled right now and would appreciate any help anyone could give me.

Thanks to all,

Edd
